The Pella (Iowa) Copperhead is doing a good work for the cause of Democracy in the West. It talks right out. Its sentiments are gound. Read it, you half-penitent Mongrelites, and "come out from among the foul party, and vote for what's honest and true :"

You have greater interest in a change in the General Government than any class of people in the country. What you get, you work for. You have no chance to steal, even if you had the inclination. You have no inclination in that direction, or you would have joined the Republican party long ago. You seek no offices, because you prefer to earn your bread honestly. You desire to make comfortable hones for your families, and hence you are found in the fields, at the work-bench, driving the cart, and laboring for your own as well as the public good.—Poor men are naturally Democratic, because they have no time to plan and scheme to cheat their neighbors. You have no time to spend in the clab room. ingendering some plan by which you can swindle your neighbor and live without work. And yet you hardly take time to think of how much importance you are in this country. Upon the farmer, mechanic and day laborer, the prosperity, wealth and durability of this entire country depend. If you fail, all fail. If you suffer, all must suffer. You furnish the bread, meat, fuel, clothing, and all that is, necessary to make a State and a people prosperous. You develope the country, subdue the soil, convert the forest into blossoming fields, and furnish the drones, hangers-on, trimmers, bankers, shoddyites, thieves, thugs, murderers, aristocrats, Congressmen, slinks, men, brokers, merchants, the old as well as

You pay the enormous taxes for road, bridge and school-house purposes! You pay the county and State tax. You pay the tax that furnishes the rump hounds the fund from which to steal themselves rich. You pay your own as well as the bondholders' tax. You pay the interest on the bonds. You support the Freedmen's Bureau. You support a standing army in the time of a most profound peace. You are paying five hundred and thirty millions of dollars annually, while the bondholders pay not a cent. Laboring, honest men, are you not tired of this thing? Are you not tired of taking from the mouths of your children and from the backs of your wives the food and clothing that their love demands, to support the infamous thieves and cormorants who now rule you with a rod of iron? Can you sweat and toil to the taxes whicher a row acting

Good Effects of Lime.

If any one has any doubts of the good effect of lime upon soil, let him take for experiment half an acre, and lime it well, and we tnink that in four or five years he will extend the application; once well done, it lasts an age. Whoever saw the pince where the ruins of a house once was, but has seen rich strong grass there all seasons, wet or dry? Now what produces this? The fertility which gathers around the residence of them. It must be the lime that falls into the soil from the bricks and plastering. Lime acts more positively on some lands than on others, but did you ever know of limestone soil which was not fertile? That did not give a larger yield of grass? It seems to act as a manure or food for plants -for all who are conversant with chemical analysis know that there is a small portion of lime or alkaline matter found in all plants, grasses, and trees. Lime supplies this, hence the vigorous growth where ever found. It is much more advantageous to double the produce of one acre, th n to work two acres for the same returns. Let us try the article, and if we see no good the first year, and but little the second; doubt not, for it requires time, to get this material under way. But when it does act its operations are durable and steady, and it annually repays the original cost, for it is an old and trite saying, "nothing risk, nothing have." Most farms are lacking in lime, and until that is supplied, crops must be small .- [Germantown Telegraph.

A little boy had lived for some with a penurious old uncle, who took good care that the child's health should not be injured by overfeeding. The uncle was one day walking out, (the child at his side,) when a friend accosted him, accompanied by a greyhound. While the elders were talking the little follow, never having seen a dog of so slim and slight a texture, clasped the creature round the neck, with the impassioned cry, "Oh, doggie, and did ye live wi' your uncle too, that ye are so thin ?"

HUMOROUS

A shrawd countryman, says a New York city paper, was in town the other day, gawky, uncouth and innocent in appearance, but in reality with his eye teeth cut. Passing up Chatham street through the Jews quarters he was continually encountered with impor-tunities to buy. From almost ever store some one rushed out in accordance with the annoying custom of that street to seize upon and try to force him to purchase. At last a dirty fellow caught him by the arm, and clamorously urged him to become a customer.

"Have you any shirts?" inquired the countrynan, with a very earnest look.

"A splended assortment, sir. Step in, sir Every price, and in every style. The cheapest in the city, sir."

"Are they clean?"

"To be sure, sir. Step in sir."

"Then,', resumed the countryman with perfeet gravity, "put one on for you need it." The rage of that Jew may be better imagined, as the countryman turned on his heel and quietly pursued his way.

UNMISTAKABLE .- It is contended that newspaper man can always tell what sort of a voman a man marries, by the way he treats the printer. If he gets a common wife, he forgets the printer altogether. If he gets a tolerably good wife, he will send in the notice of his marriage. If he gets a very good one, he will send the printer a slice of cake accompanying the notice. If he gets an extra good one, he will send a greenback with the notice. And if he gets a glorious, angelic creatureall affection and goodness-he is sure to send the printer a gold or silver dollar, with the notice of his happiness.

THE TRAY FOR LOW .- Some boys were playing cards recently, in a hay mow, in the country, during a terrible storm of wind, rain and hunder. When the war of the elements was at its height, a tree near the old barn, was struck by lightning, and at the same moment a severe blast of wind upset the story of the barn, and tumbled the card players to the ground, amid a perfect wreck of boards, beams and rafters. The first thing heard was the voice of one of the boys, as he crawled out of the debris, holding fast to the cards, "Remember, boys, I played the tray for low." That chap will be a Lieutenant-General, if we ever have another war.

A Confederate ghost sent the editors of the North Alabamian a Ku-Klux order, and en closed twenty dollars in Confederate money to pay the printing. He says it passes in the moon at par.
